

Manage Attrition & Raise Employee Productivity

With headlines like 'The Great Resignation' and 'Quiet Quitting' on one hand and 'Plummeting Employee Productivity' it is clear that the IT industry is facing these twin challenges among many others.

From the CEO's Desk

We have always looked at project businesses holistically. Pandemic has fast forwarded the digitalization opportunity for IT industry. However, organizations must overcome the challenges of talent crisis, margins pressure and overall customer satisfactions to leverage these opportunities. Organizations continue to look at these challenges as isolated problems and tries to solve them using the legacy approach of home-grown utilities, task management software and spreadsheets. They must realize that they need an integrated approach and need the digital platforms which are built specifically for IT industry and have a clear pathway of integrating emerging tech like AI/ML/Data science etc. And no amount of digitalization can be successful without building the digital culture involving people change management.

We have taken a lead in developing professional services automation software. We are committed to our purpose of making each of the customer projects more profitable and more impactful.
